The 10-year trend has been one of continuous decline, with a decrease of approximately 29% in the number of licensed / certified appraisers over the past 10 years and a decline of approximately 15% during the last five years.
The overall decline in the appraiser population is strongly correlated with the decline in the number of Licensed and Certified Residential Appraisers.
End of Report